Under this plan the tariff wall around Great Britain would be raised against non-empire imports and loopnoles would be provided for the entry of dairy products and meats from other nations of the empire.

The future of more than 100 Amercan branch factories hung in the balance as the conference studied the "empire content" or percentage of empire material and labor an article must contain to qualify for customs entry under preferential tariff rates.

DISARMAMENT IS SEEN

AS BASIS OF CO-OPERATION
PARIS, July 27,—(P)—Disarmament constitutes the basis for co-operation between the United States and Europe, Ambassador Walter E. Edge told Premier Edouard Herriot today when he paid a courtesy call on his return from Washington.

The embassy announced that the conversation between the ambassador and the premier covered the subject of Franco-American relations generally but did not include war debts.

Americans feel keenly about disarmament, Mr. Edge told the premier, and if Europe wants American aid disarming would be good preparation for it.

Adding that the costs of accidents mount into the millions of dollars, Dr. Stack advocated a state drivers' law. an inspection bureau for motor vehicles, because "perhaps 10 per cent of drivers and an equal number of vehicle should not be on the highways."

Police Jobs Refused Kin by City Doctors Kin by City Doctors The old wheeze about the prevalence of nepotism in various city departments is due to become an obsolete bromide if Dr. C. R. Bullock and Dr. D. F. Smith, city physicians, are given a free reign. Dr. Bullock tured down his own brother because he had a stiff knee and Dr. Smith made an adverse report on his own son because he was underweight in a recent examination of applicants for jobs as city policemen.

"We could not pass them," they were quoted as having said. "They failed to measure up to what we expect of other applicants." Completion of the land-tax maps, now being prepared by the city planning commission under the direction of Raymond W. Torras, engineer-secretary, will enable tax assessors to institute a system of building records, thus providing accurate valuations, members of the tax committee of council were told Wednesday afternoon by Joe C. Little, tax assessor.

Council will be asked to provide a fund of $25,000 for initiating the system, which would, it is claimed, eliminate any possible criticism of the taxing department, and at the same time provide equitable assessment for all properties. RATE DISPUTE TODAY A fight against proposed increases in freight rates on numerous products produced in the south will be begun this morning when representatives of railroad and utility commissions of five southeastern states meet here at 10:30 o'clock at the Henry Grady hotel.

Albert J. Woodruff, president of the association, and a member of the Georgia public service commission, has said the proposed increases would discriminate against southern producers in favor of those in northern states. Some of the commodities affected are cotton ties, cotton bagging, cotton goods, iron and steel products, stoves, harness and numerous others.

Councilman Claude L. Barnwell, chairman of the tax committee, said he would study the matter with a view of obtaining the necessary funds with which to make the necessary sur-veys on buildings as contemplated by

"We have had this in contemplation for years, but lack of funds with which to carry the work to completion has prevented our doing so.

"The equipment for the installation of this system of valuations on a more accurate and scientific basis, however, is a mere beginning of the work.

"It will require time and money to complete it. Field men must be employed to gather and keep the needed information up to date and accurate.

WASHINGTON, July 27 .- (AP)-

Twenty thousand men will be employed from six to eight months and paid more than $6,000,000 in wages for construction of army buildings provided for in the relief bill when its provisions are carried out.

Airdromes, barracks, drill halls, gymnasiums and various other buildings at posts scattered throughout the United States are to be built.

Congress appropriated $15,164,000 for the army buildings and it is estimated that about 40 per cent of this will go for labor and the remainder for materials.

Meanwhile, William R. Babcock, head of the Philippine delegation to the Olympic games and former business partner of Templeton's father, lay dangerously wounded in a Palo Alto hospital, where a blood transfusion was ordered.

The story of the attack as retold by authorities follows:

Last Sunday young Templeton visited the home of his aunt, Mrs. Walter Buckish, whose husband is commissioner of schools of the Philippine Islands, where the Babcocks were visiting. A Filipine houseboy showed the youth about the home as he carefully studied the scene of his contemplated crime.

He also bought a five-gallon can of kerosene, with which he intended to fire the house. He intended the others in the house would escape.

The youth excused himself about midnight from the Oakland lunch room where he worked and drove to the Buckish home.

He found his way to the bedroom where the Babcocks slept only after turning on the lights and made so much noise he was surprised the household was not awakened.

He stabbed his uncle, struggled to pull down the covers, which his aunt had pulled over her head, and stabbed her to death. By that time Babcock grappled with him and the youth dropped the knife and fled.

Congressman Crisp reiterated his charge made in several speecher that Governor Russell, his opponent in the United States senate race, had done nothing which would prove beneficial to the farmers when they were beg-ging and needing the governor's as-sistance.

"He is now making the statement," Crisp said, "that the extra session of

USE OF HIGHWAYS BY HEAVY TRUCKS SCORED BY ABIT NIX

"The people of Georgia," Nix asserted, "want good roads but they are growing restire under the long delays and the tremendous expenditure for upkeep. The same rigid economy must be practiced in this department as in all departments.
"Good roads and good schools must go hand in hand, not one at the expense of the other. Neither the schools nor the roads should be retarded in their onward march. Adjustment must be made and under my administration it will be made."

Trusting to Luck Saves Mental Effort, But Blue Prints Cause Fewer Regrets

-By Robert Quillen-The ordinary individual thinks only in terms of the present. He takes it for granted that the present scheme of things will last forever. He does not realize that his children's children will live in another kind of America, as unlike this one as today's vehicles are unlike the stage coaches of our fathers. Yet change is constant, and silent forces scarcely recognized are shaping the trends that will destroy the civilization we know and build

Four thousand years ago a great civilization flourished in Egypt People no less intelligent than moderns developed arts and scien They invented an alphabet, made paper, studied the stars, perfected a alendar, made clocks, learned algebra, erected great buildings of stone As the centuries passed without threat of change, they doubtless thought their kingdom would forever remain the whole of civilization. Yet today their land is ruled by people whose ancestors were still unshorn savages when Egypt's temples had grown old.

It is change that makes history. The brief story of America is a story of changes neither premeditated nor foreseen. An aristocracy in which the poor had no voice was followed by an ra in which one man was aggressively "as good as another," and this turn gave way to a system dominated by wealth. Independent pioneers lealous of their freedom were followed by wage rners wholly dependent on their weekly pay envelopes, and increased use of machinery built up industrial centers and left farm lands idle. Women who were domestic slaves, classed by law with children and idiots, lived to see a new era in which women ruled. An age that dared not speak of sex was followed by one that spoke The only thing that endures is change. It is endless and inevitable.

Must we then wait in helpless inactivity while chance determines the Russia has found a better plan.

Must America continue to stumble from change to change, never knowing where the next year will find her? How can a ship escape disaster if those on board neither hold it to definite course nor choose a destination? (Copyright, 1932, for The Constitution.)

BERLIN, July 27.—(P)—Adolf Hitler's national socialists and the nationalists took a couple of pot shots at the Von Papen government today, thereby indicating the administration is having a difficult time even with its supporters on the eve of the reich stag elections Sunday.

Hans Kerrl, president of the russian diet and a Hitler leader, issued a demand that Chancellor Franz Ven Papen in his capacity as federal commissioner of Prussia rescind a Prussia sian decree issued June 8 under which all civil servants of the state were taxed 21-2 to 5 per cent of their sal-aries in the form of a forced loan.

Dr. Elfred Hugenberg, leader of the nationalist party, asked the chan-cellor as head of the federal government to rescind an emergency decree issued by the reich June 14 which taxed every German who has a job. Political observers asserted that these two demands on the chancellor were nothing more than an attempt by the nazis and the nationalists to square themselves with the voters by indulging in a bit of campaign thun-

The chancellor's reply to Herr Kerrl had not been published tonight, but he responded to Dr. Hugenberg with a guarded answer that far-going finan-cial reorganization would take place and the administrative apparatus would be simplified. The June 14 decree was prepared by the Von Papen government. In ad-dition to imposing a graduated tax starting at 11-2 per cent on all per-sons who have jobs, it reduced the dole to unemployed and imposed a new salt tax. new salt tax.

In the current campaign the nazis and the nationalists have had a lot of difficulty trying to explain why they when its financial measures are at least as severe as those that were so unpopular when Dr. Heinrich Bruening was chancellor.

In today's demands on the chancellor, political observers said, the two party spokesmen attempted to free the nazis and the nationalists from

was a cold December day in the winter of 1923. The S. S. Denver was anchored just outside the Boston harbor. There were some boxing matches on for the ship title.

A fellow named "Battling Skee" was winning the heavy-weight title. And watching him was a tall, strongly built boy of 15, wide of eye and wondering, a "boot" just assigned to the ship from the recruit station.

Observe now the workings of the fates who pull the strings behind the scenes.

Yesterday afternoon at Candler field the big Condor plane from New York rolled in and halted on the apron. A pretty hostess in blue opened the door.

And out stepped a big fellow, broad of shoulder, keen of eye and powerful of limb. Ernie Schaaf, leading contender among the younger crop of heavyweights, was halting in Atlanta en route to New Orleans and a fight

The 15-year-old recruit of 1923 has grown up. "Battling Skee," whom he had watched with wide excited eyes nine years ago, is now Jack Sharkey, heavy-weight champion of the world. And the 15-year-old kid is headed for the title. The tall frame has become 210 pounds of hard brawn and bone.

The opener was a pitchers' duel, with Oral Hildebrand shading Danny MacFayden as the result of Vosmika, home run, a pair of singles and a sacrifice in the fourth inning. Hildebrand held the Yanks to four hits, while the Indians got only six off MacFayden. He laughs, showing a pleasant smile, and says, "I don't know, but I think I'll win the title from Jack or from whoever holds it when my time comes. I feel that way. I think I'm going to be champion."

Life is a great thing for Ernie Schaaf. He has beaten it with his fists and his great strong arms that tear down his opponent's strength. He is young, just 23 years old, and ahead is fortune and fame and power.

And so, just nine years after the two of them were gobs on the U. S. S. Denver, Jack Sharkey and Ernie Schaaf are together, one the champion and the other the one whom Fate seems to have destined to take away the title.

Jack Sharkey, who came from the restless battleship to become a wealthy home-owner, a proud and fond father and the world's champion, is one of Schaaf's

They are friends but the fire of ambition and life burn too strongly in Schaaf to let him dream of anything but hammering his way to the top with those big fists and the piston-like arms. And as if is Jack Sharkey before him it will just have

"I don't know. Nothing is sure. But I think I can go ahead through the eliminations and win.'

SHARKEY BEAT SCHMELING.

Schaaf's right eye was a bit discolored from the fight with Paulino Uzcudun three nights ago in the Garden.

I asked him if some of the boys didn't insist be lost the fight because of that eye—so much was made of the black eye which Sharkey received when he beat Schmel-

Schaaf grinned. "Jack won that fight," he said. "I don't see how they can say otherwise. In fact, few of them are now. The movies show that Jack gave him a boxing lesson and one blow, and not such a hard one, can discolor an eye.'

The Paulino fight was Schaaf's first 15-rounder. "I didn't tire so much more than I do in ten-round fights," he said. "Paulino was about out in the last round, but he is such a crawfish and stays so well in a shell that he is hard to hit."

Jerry Buckley, brother of Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, is with Schaaf on the trip to New Orleans for the fight there with Ted Sandwina on August 1.

"I don't see how anyone can stop Ernie," he said. "I think hat within a year he will be too strong for Jack. As for the tanley Poreda fight, in which that worthy got a decision, Buckly and Schaaf didn't worry. "The fight was postponed twice," as said, "and I didn't have much pepper. And he was in his ome town. He just got the decision. And I don't think it maters much."

plane had just come.

"You know, I'd always worried a lot about W. L. And when I gave him such an unmerciful beating I was shocked a bit. But I'll say this for him. I never fought a gamer man. They had told me he couldn't take it but he took plenty and he took it asking the referee not to stop it. I hated to do it but he wouldn't quit and no one would toss in a towel and so I had to go on. Schaaf was dubious about a comeback effort by ibling. The answer was apparent without wondering. Schaaf is 23 years old, strong and coming along fast. Stribling is nearing 30 and going downhill so far as physical prowess is concerned.

"I'll always remember him, though," said Schaaf, "as one of the gamest fellows I ever saw. And I hope he doesn't fight too long and get knocked around too much and marked up."

WAY DOWN YONDER IN NEW ORLEANS.

Schaaf, said Jerry Buckley, as we rode back from the air port, is a great fellow to handle. No bad habits, knows how to take care of himself and does it.

"Johnny has been lucky with navy fighters," he said. "Both Ernie and Jack take great care of themselves. One doesn't have to worry about them."

In the fight game one always views the stand-outs in the game as being somehow older and possessed of more years than they really are. Schaaf is just 23 years old, just about the age of Junior when he graduates from college and wonders what sort of business to get into.

Eddie Morgan's home run in the eighth capped the festivities. The circuit blow put the Indians one run ahead and then for good measure they added another. Although pitching only one inning, George Pipgras was charged with the defeat, the two runs being record off him.

Dr. Knapp said that they had been notified by him but that the action "did not originate with me." He said that the matter was still under consideration and that when he leaves to assume his new duties as president of Texas Technological Institute at Lubbock in September, his successor at Auburn may take his own action. Dr. Knapp tendered his resignation several days ago to accept the presidency of the Texas school.

McAllister joined the Auburn coaching staff in 1931. McFadden, a popular athlete at Auburn during his college days, has been a member of the staff three years.

Chet Wynne, head coach at Auburn, said last night he would be handicapped by the loss of the two coaches but "just what will be done is a matter of conjecture."

DETROIT, July 27.—The "Real McCoy" is broke at 59.
Forty years after the beginning of all those glamorous years as Kid McCoy, the former welterweight champion of the world, whose ring name became a colloquialism, Norman Selby has returned here to start all over again in this necessary business of making a living.

He came by airplane after his release on parole from San Quentin prison, California, where he served eight years of a 20-year term for the slaying of a sweetheart, to become an employe of the Ford Motor Company, bringing Mike, a canary, his faithful prison companion.

They wouldn't parole him without a job, and his friend, Harry H. Bennett, head of he company's service department, came to his rescue. The Detroit man met the Kid in Philadelphia during the World War, when Bennett was boxing in the navy under the pseudonym of "Saiior Reese" and Selby was an army boxing instructor.

RAWLS STARTED

IN FISH POOL

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—(UP)
Katherine Rawls started swimming in a fish pool so it's only natural she is a good swimmer.

The 15-year-old conqueror of Georgia Coleman in the national Olympic diving tryouts appears similar to a boy with her closely cropped hair and he: ingratiating grin.

"It was all luck," she tells you, "my beating Georgia dive a lot better."

The fish pool, forerunner of the Olympic swimming stadium in Katherine's career, was in the backyard of the family home in St. Augustine, Fla. Katherine was 2 years old when she started swimming in it.

Eventually the pool gave way to a lake in Tampa and "that's where I really learned to swim."

He was asked about his loss to Stanley Poreda. Schaaf didn't smile at mention of that. It was just one of those off nights, he said.

Double Attraction On East Point Card

Townsend Tonight

In NEW YORK, July 27.—(UP)—
Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, faces the stiffest test of his comeback campaign tomorrow night when he meets Billy Townsend, hard-hitting Vancouver welterweight, in a 10-rounder at Queensboro stadium, Leonard has met with remarkable success since returning to the ring a year ago. He has collected 19 victories in his try for the welterweight title.

Townsend, because of his youth and punch, is a 6-to-5 favorite to beat the former fistic idol. It probably is the first time in his long career that Leonard entered the ring on the wrong end of the betting.

CHICAGO, July 27.—(P)—Three hundred and thirty-seven chances without a metrod and thirty-seven chances without a her possible to heat is the achievement of Ray Hayworth, peppery young catcher of Hayworth, peppery young catcher of the Detroit Tigers, whose performance was hailed today as a major league record for backstops. Henry Perpont Edwards, statistician for the American league, stamped Hayworth's work as a record after digging into the musty batch of figures.

This season, to date, Hayworth has participated in 67 games and made the first time in his long career that Leonard entered the ring on the wrong end of the betting.

Sharkey's Protege, Pausing Here, Says He Has Youth's Ability To Go Up; Hunt Sought for Atlanta Match.

the heavyweight dais that he will be the man upon whom the purple mantle of monarchy will fall.

The towering, broad-shouldered Apollo of the ring, who now runs second in Johnny Buckley's great tandem or neavyweights, made that remark soom after bending his glant frame through the door of an Eastern Air Transport yesterday, completing the first lap of his plane hop from New York to New Orleans, where he is to fight Ted Sandwina under the promotion of Lou Diamond, August 1.

The possibility of a meeting with Sharkey is not as remote to Schaaf as it seems to others. Some day they may have to fight, due to the scarcity of heavyweight timber in this country. "When we do, the bout will be on the level and I think I have a good chance to win," he added. Not such bold language, mabye, from a man who had won 19 straight fights when he lost to Poreda. He is the "Schaaf" who marked the spots where many good heavies fell.

This front rank contender does not seem to suffer from any inferiority complex just because he happens to be jointly managed by the champion of the world. Eruie Schaaf amits he was a good heavyweight before Sharkey ever came close to the title and now, that he has won it, he intends to keep plugging until the day comes when the crown shifts again: Sharkey ecouldn't lose by the transaction, since he owns a bloc of Schaaf.

PIRATES BEAT

Pittsburgh Goes Five Full Games Ahead of Cubs.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(P)—With Bill Harris receiving credit for both victories, the Pittsburgh Pirates de-feated the New York Giants twice to-day to increase their lead in the Na-tional league to five full games over the Cubs, who broke even at Boston. The scores were 9 and 8 and 4 to 2. The first game was a parade of pitchers with Harris on the mound when the Pirates went out in front with a four-run rally in the sixth. The pightcap was a pitchers' battle, however, with Waite Hoyt holding the league leaders in check until the ninth and Bill Swift and Harris limiting the Giants to four hits.

"Paulino had been built up high as a kite for the scrap; he is still a mighty good trial horse, because of his peculiar style of covering and throwing them from everywhere, but he didn't worry me; I'll fight him any night you name," concluded Schaaf, smiling pleasantly.

"I gave him an unmerciful shellacking, all right, but I notice that he has won a couple of fights in Australia; I was surprised that he continued fighting after losing to Schmeling and myself, but he seems to have plenty of courage."

Starting Blocks Barred in Olympics

By Alan Gould,

Associated Press Sports Editor.

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—(AP)—Olympic track and field officials, holding their first clinic today in preparation for the world championship athletic battle starting Sunday, compromised on innovations by banning all use of starting blocks, but approving, semi-officially, the new Kirby photo-electric timer, used successfully this season in the American championships and final tryouts.

These decisions were reached by the record.

all use of starting blocks, but approving, semi-officially, the new Kirby photo-electric timer, used successfully this season in the American champlonships and final tryouts.

These decisions were reached by the record and rules committee of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, of which Avery Srundage, of Chicago, head of the American Olympic delegation, is chairman.

They will be put before the congress of the 1, A. A. F., for final action Friday, at which time the suspension of Paavo Nurmi and other vital pre-Olympic subjects are due to be settled.

The use of starting blocks has been under discussion ever since the last Olympics, but the device has yet to win international approval. Their use has been initiated in the United States, mainly among the colleges, but they have not generally been along the colleges. The new timer or "camera clock" will be used through the Olympic track events, experimentally for the most part, but also for the official settlement of any disputed placings in the races. The 1 A. A. F., committee adopted its use officially for timing track events of the decathlon or all-around championship.

In the long list of world record track and field performances recommended for approval by Brundage's committee, the startling achievements of American atars this spring and summer were conspicuously missing.

These are the United States entries who carry a large part of the spotlight. They have been thrown in where the United States wall was broken down at Paris and at Amsterdam. They have been rushed to the gap that was wide open in 1924 and 1928, and if this bunch can't check the invading charge we might as well admit that Europe has a greater combination of speed and stamina. Europe proved this at Paris and Amsterdam.

I believe Los Angeles will tell a slightly different story, without suggesting anything in the form of a United States avalanche.

There are five big races where the United States expects to have a large chance. They are the 100-200-400-800-1,500-meter runs.

This country has never had as strong a team nor as fresh and keen a team as it has ready for these five shows.

Metcalfe, Tolan and Simpson form the fastest 100-meter trio yet selected to carry the Stars and Stripes.

Metcalfe is the greatest 200-meter runner 1 ever saw, with a slash and a drive that will be hard to stop. And he will have his share of help from Tolan and Simpson from Tolan and Simpson.

What is still more important, all three aprinters are in superb condition. The is isn't a sign of staleness in evidence and all three radiate enough confidence to win six Olympics, if confidence counts.

Metcalfe and Tolan believe they can run faster than they have ever run before, being all steamed up with this unending sunshine of the west coast. And Simpson is back at his best.

Except for the defeat of Doeg, play followed form in men's singles with Gregory Mangin, of Newark; Sidney B. Wood Jr., of New York, and Lester Stoefen, of Los Angeles, assuring themselves of at least another day of the club's hospitality.

Mangin defeated Samuel Gilpin, of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-2; Wood swept to victory over E. W. Feibleman, of New York, 6-4, 6-3, and Stoefen defeated Jack Tidball, of Hollywood, Cal., 8-6, 6-3.

The quarter-finals of the men's doubles added more upsets as two of the highly favored teams were eliminated. Wood and Mangin went down after a terrific battle with Robert Bryan, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Jack McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, Texas, 19-21, 6-4, 9-7.

against as fine a 400-man as Rampling.

I believe both Carr and Eastman will beat 47 seconds, and that should be fast enough. Carr looks as cool and serene as a summer's dawn. He has a philosophy that knows little about worry. And Eastman looks to be much faster than he was at Palo Alto two weeks ago.

These three races—the 100, 200 and 400-meter sprints—will be the sirongest spots for the United States.

As the distance increases the odds begins to build up. Genung, a corking 800-meter man with a fast finishing drive, has a harder battle to meet. Genung also is in fine shape for his best race, but these British and Canadian 800-meter people are no pancakes.

They seem born to this route and it is here they may have te make

Young Carson Dyer Hurls Team Into State Meet at Albany Next Week.

Road Tonight.

Heavy rainfall last night prohibited the scheduled game between the Atlanta Crackers and the Knoxville Smokles set for 8 o'clock at Ponce de Leon park.

The teams will meet in a double-header today, first game starting at 1:45, it was announced. "Ladies" Day" will be observed.

Strike up the band for the Grant Park Aces, as scrappy a gang of urchins as ever won a title. They're the aces of the Atlanta sandlots this morning. The head trumpet man might also sound a blast for young Carson Dyer, the pitcher, who turned in the great 1-0 victory over Jim Bagby Jr., of the North Side Terrors.

Ranked No. 2 on the pitching list and an uncertain starter up until game time, he stepped out on the rubber and pitched a heady, staying game for nine lunings in one of the prettiest exhibitions—amateur or professional—seen at Ponce de Leon park all season.

The triumph of the Aces, underdogs in the early conjecturing, brought a grin as wide as young Dyer's curve ball to the face of Coach

"Reb" Bell, the good sportsman who has charge of the Terrors, accepted his loss in good grace.

"They won the bell game and now we're going to root for them to bring back the state title from Albany," he declared. Even in defeat, hope surged eternal in the breast of the Terrors.

Few Veterans on Men's Team; Women Favored To Win.

By Bob Hiphuth,

Coach, American Olympic Los Angelles, July 26.—(R)— American supremacy in men's awimming, uninterrupted in the Olympic games since the war, will be abruptly ended by the Japanese if the sensational aquatic team from the orient lives up to its advance notices and trial performances.

I know of nothing so phenomenal in athletics as the rapid development of Japanese swimmers in the past eight years. There is no question they have the stuff to beat any other Olympic outfit now and it is only a question of whether they will come through under pressure.

ONE VETERAN.

ONE VETERAN.

The United States has only one real veteran on this year's team—Clarence (Buster) Crabbe, of Los Angeles Athletic Club. Mostly we have a team of youngsters. We have, of course, lost Johnny Weissmuller. In addition our chances of defending the Olympic team title have been hard hit by the loss of George Kojac, of New York, whose failure to come to the final tryouts at Cincinnati is still a mystery to me. Kojac would have assured us two first places, in the 100-meter free style and 100-meter backstroke.

So far as women's swimming is concerned, however, the United States will sweep most if not all of the Olympic championships. No other country has anyone to compare with such stars as Helene Madison, Eleanor Holm, Eleanor Garatti Sayville, Georgia Coleman, Louisa Robert, Katherine Rawls and others.

We have small chance to win the water polo against such teams as the Germans, holders of the Olympic title, and the Hungarians, who have been undefeated in Europe or elsewhere since the last Olympiad.

STRONG ENTRIES.

STRONG ENTRIES.

The Japanese, in men's events, have strong entries all around and stand a good chance to win at least three features, the 100-meter free style, the 200-meter breast stroke and 1.500-meter free style, in which Kusuo Kitamura, 14-year-old boy, promises to be a sensation. This youth will be up against touch competition in men like Crabbe, Jean Teris, of France, and "Boy" Charlton, of Australia, but on performance he is the class of the world. Makino is another Japanese star in the 1,500.

At the short distances, Europeans

At the short distances, Europeans are favorites on form, including Barranyi, of Hungary, in the 100-meter free style and Taris, of France, at ranyi, of Hungary, in the 100-meter free style and Taris, of France, at 400 meters.

In the 100, the Japanese will depend on Yusa and Miyazaki while the United States has three good men in Schwartz, of the Illinois Athletic Club; Thompson, of the Navy, and Manuella Kalili, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club.

Tauruta will defend the breast stroke title for Japan, with Ted Moles, former Yale star, among the contenders. The back stroke should be another good test between Japan and the United States. One of our entries in this is a 16-year-old lad, Danny Zehr, of Fort Wayne, Ind., but our youngest is Ralph Flanagan, 14-year-old star from Miami, Fla, in the 1,500.

Our divers, including "Dutch" Smith and Mickey (Riley) Gallitzen, should be supreme in the platform as well as springboard tests. The S00-meter relay is a toss-up between Japan and the United States.

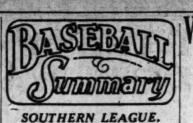

SANDLOT TITLE IS WON BY ACES

Continued from First Sports Page. Williams, Vickery taking second. Hornsby flied out and Shoemake was tossed out by Dyer. Bedlam broke loose along about here as the Aces did a war dance. Elrod with a double and a single Elrod with a double and a single and scoring the only run, was the batting hero of the Aces. Bradshaw also made two hits. The Aces combed a total of seven safeties off Bagby, while Dyer held the Terrors to three. The Aces afield were regular hounds after the ball. Once the Terrors started a rally, they were all over the place grabbing the ball. Young Blackstock at second base was one of the fielding heroes.

The Port itself was a treasure. Low and rambling and primitive, without being crude. Fires blazed in staunch stone chimueys, their ruddy warmth reflected from old blue china and policibed course are walks and in area. ished copper on walls and in open cupboards. Gay hooked rugs were cupboards. Gay hooked rugs were scattered over woven rag carpets and natural pine table and chairs were mellowed with time and usage. The air was redolent of hickory logs, of pine cones and of savouries. Food was served country style in the old blue dishes and in pressed glass such as was released as was relegated to the top shelves of cupboard in Centerville. A friendly setter came in and watched with melancholy eyes for tidbits from the table. He proved his skill as a beggar by advancing and putting his head in Tony's lap.

Tony forgot the throbbing pain in putting his head in Tony's lap.

Tony forgot the throbbing pain in her wrist. The Port of Missing Men moved her to memories, to anticipations. Her grandmother had prized a set of these blue dishes. When the cottage came true it would have a rag carpet on the floor and a scattering of hooked rugs. The fireplace would be as big as this one and she would have her drawing things over in an alcove, all windows, so there would be plenty of light.

alcove, all windows, so there would be plenty of light.

The table was cleared. Basking in the fragrant warmth of the fireplace, Donald Kemp reminded Tony he was to see her sketch. 'She brought it out with misgivings, He might not understand how she came to be in a muddle over so negligible a thing as a gown on a woman's figure: It looked so simple—a few lines, colors ed so simple—a few lines, colors blocked in. Only one familiar with technique could appreciate the infinity of detail.

"The lady does not look unlike your friend, Miss Moran," was his first comment. "She is Miss Moran." "Yes. I though clothing on some one I knew and liked would make my treatment more sympathetic."

"You've caught her in rather a flat-tering mood." He placed the sketch on a table, regarded it from a dis-tance. After a while he said frankly: "I don't think her dress fits her." Tony was hurt. She had not thought he would be facetious.

thought he would be facetious.

"Perhaps I'd better tear it up and draw her a new dress."

"That would be a pity. The dress is charming. I doubt if you could or would do a better one. The trouble is that it's out of key with the lady. She is a very urban and sophisticated miss, judging by her eyes and the tilt of her chin. The dress might have grown on a tree in some leafy glade. That green is only seen on trees in springtime and the froth of cream with just that rosy hint suggests a burst of blossoms. Even the touches of brown have life in them like the bark of trees when the sap is flowing."

Tony seethed with excitement.

"Either you are too tremendously clever." she cried, "or I am a genius. The idea for the sketch was taken from a chestnut tree in bloom. You've seen it, the luxuriant fingered leaves, the tall flower spikes, palest cream, with a dash of carmine painted on the face of each tiny blossom. Do you really think I've caught the feeling?"

"You've caught it completely. No one except a person who loved trees could do it."

High spots of color glowed on Tony's cheeks. Like all true artists she was torn between the elation that praise brought her and impatience of her inability to merit such praise.

"Then what's wrong with it?" she demanded, picking up the sketch and turning it face down on the table.
"There are merits, I know, but somehow it just doesn't click."

What promises to be a big feature to tournament bridge players of Atlanta is the series of 10 tournaments to be run by the Cavendish Club to decide the individual champion of that club.

The plan is as follows: Each Friday verning, starting with this week's regular Friday night tournament, a tournament consisting of 22 pairs will be staged. Each pair will play one board against every other pair. At the conclusion of each tournament the winners will receive six points, those finishing second will receive fire, those finishing third four and so on in inverse order until the sixth pair, who will receive one point. The score for each fournament will be kept and at the end of the series of 10 the player having the highest number of points will win the handsome master's cup which the club will present the winners of each tournament with trophies.

One of the features of the coming competition is that mo player will be allowed to play with the same partner more than three times. Much interest has been created by the announcement of this so-called individual championship and entries are coming in fast. Each tournament will be restricted to 22 pairs.

Even though the weather has been far from the bridge variety during the past week the attendance at this club has held up well. No less than 10 ta-bles were filled Saturday evening and bles were filled Saturday evening and the average has been around six each day. This club boasts some good bridge talent. Among the leading ones might be mentioned Howard Graves, Dr. Charles Hall Jr., Miss Peggy Porter, Mrs. Leater Crane, of Miami: Mrs. J. T. Daniels, Joe David, Charles Mion and Paul Reid.

But right there was where fate wrote something opposite the names of Mion and Graves by directing Mr. Reid to lead out of turn. Paul led the diamond ten and with a great feeling of thanksgiving in his heart Mr. Graves directed that Mr. David lead a diamond. As seen, with any opening save the spade ace the hand is a lay down for seven no trumps. Whenever you can bid and make a grand slam in no trump with the leader holding one of the aces you had better go off and buy cotton or stocks or wheat, for, brother, you are smeared over with luck.

A letter received this morning from L. S. Crane, of Miami, suggests that Atlanta and Miami might get together this fall in a bridge match. Mr. Crane, who is the husband of Mrs. Lester Crane, who has been doing so well in tournament play during her summer tournament play during her summer visit in Atlanta, was on the Miami team which recently journeyed to West Palm Beach and administered a defeat to the bridge players of the latter city. According to Mrs. Knowles the Iron Duke gives great promise of becoming a very fine bridge; said Mrs. Knowles, "much like I imagine he went about learning golf. CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON. World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

We all admire the daring Contract player who in the bidding and play of a hand, flirts every moment with danger, but successfully escapes the pitfails of honor-tricks and distribution adversely held. On the other hand, the player who insists upon warning his opponents of danger and affording them a key to the correct play of the hand may be an altruist, a kind father and an indulgent husband, but he is not an extremely desirable partner at the Contract table. The safety margin of 2 tricks required for a Penalty Double is hased upon the fact that one of the expected tricks in the Dummy, returned to his own hand with the Ace of diamonds, led another diamond, trumped in the Dummy, returned to his own hand with the Ace of diamonds, led another diamond, trumped in the Dummy, returned to his own hand with the Ace of diamonds, led another diamond, trumped in the Dummy, returned to his own hand with the Ace of diamonds, led another diamond in the Dummy. The bidding: West Pass Pass

The bidding is orthodox enough, and the Small Slam contract eventually reached is perfectly correct. The only bad feature of the contracting is West's Double. At best, he can hope to defeat the contract, so far as his holdin, is concerned, but a single trick. It is true this defeat appears reasonably safe, but the difference bereasonably safe, but the difference be-tween defeating a contract of six, un-doubled, and six, doubled, not vul-nerable, is a paltry 50 points—cer-tainly not to be considered in rubber. play, and scarcely worth the risk of giving valuable information to the Declarer as to the method of play in Duplicate.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Doubtful Penalty Doubles are un-wise, as they frequently furnish to the Declarer an opportunity to make a contract, which would otherwise be defeated. Unless the set is absolutely certain, a Penalty Double should have a safety margin, and should promise defeat of the contract by 2 tricks. TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed to-South-Dealer. North and South vulnerable.

The habit of worrying is a wicked prostitution of spiritual and mental powers and the result of it is a sterilization of these powers. There is an element of cowardice in it, too. Worry is born of fear and like all other fear-bred phantoms it feeds and fattens itself in the mind of the man or woman that harbors it. It will suck the life blood and leave its victim weak and anaemic.

Debussy, Liszt, Dvorak, Brahms, Bizet, Mascagni and others will be presented by Misses Erma Shelnutt. The one that worries is not even as good as the man of the rhyme of whom it is said, "He who fights and runs away will live to fight another day." He doesn't fight, he doesn't run. He sits still and fumes and frets. But, says the businessman who sees his life's work crumbling in his hands like so much pastry: "How can you avoid worry when you are facing obligations that you cannot meet and when you are dealing with circumstances over which you have no control, when after you have worked hard and built up a fortification around your family which you thought was strong as steel, this turns out to be of insubstantial stuff?" Well, the answer to that is that worry doesn't rebuild your wall but instead it unfits you for the work of rebuilding.

Says the woman whose earnings are Daughters of America, will sponsor a lemon cutting this evening at the hall, 236 Capitol avenue, S. E., at 8 o'clock. Proceeds will be used for re-lief work. Mrs. Adah Sims is in-charge. Members of other councils and friends of the order are invited.

I know a brave woman left with a large family of dependent children to feed and clothe and educate. After her husband's death she was consumed with fear for their future and harassed with doubts as to her ability to provide them with the actual necessities of life. A few days agu I heard her utter an amazing confession of faith, one that would shame many a man in better position. Said she: "I have got to the point where I can see that this experience has been a God-send to me and my children. I believe but for this financial debacle we would have reared a generation of worthless, incompetent boys and girls. Certainly my own children would have grown up without any

A physician tells me that ten years ago goitre was a rare disease (comparatively speaking) among men. The ratio of women with goitre to men with goitre was ten to one, it being a disease much aggravated by emotional upsets. Today the number of men with goitre is more than doubled. It is a tragic thought! Not a dollar was ever earned by worry, not a mouth was ever fed by worry, not a business was ever helped by worry. Yet those poor distressed men have added to their anguish, illness, costly experience with doctors and hospitals because they couldn't think rationally about the disasters that overlook them, because they couldn't allay the fears that appeared on their horizons. Says the woman whose earnings are swept away, "How can I refrain from worrying about a dependent old age for which there is now no provision?" Just by the use of reason, by forcing yourself to realize that futile effort of worry about losses, time wasted in grieving over misfortune, strength dissipated in nursing the phantom fear, will not make provision for old age. But these energies harnessed to constructive thinking and planning for present necessities will not only yield the necessities will not only yield the necessities will not only yield the necessities will leave no time for worry.

Billie Dove Is Starred

In 'The Age for Love' An old theme, that of the wife who, herself an important figure in the business world, pays more attention to her work than to her husband, provides the basis for an entertainment picture, "The Age for Love." which opened a three-day run at the Geor-gia theater Wednesday. While Billie Dove is listed as the While Billie Dove is listed as the star, there are at least four other members of the cast who, contribute sufficiently to the picture to class it as one of those pleasantly and equally cast affairs. Miss Dove, by the way, has reduced weight consideraby and with the style of hair arrangement she affects, looks remarkably like Norma Shearer in this picture.

There is a keen rivalry in the picture between wife number 1, the business woman, and wife number 2, one of those dar homebodies. And the "blessed event" trick almost wins the day for wife number 2. But not quite.

OUSTED FILIPINOS FROM GOVERNMENT

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., July 27.—(P)—Filipino truck gardners driven from their Everglades muck farms last week by white farmers, have called on President Hoover for protection until they can regain money invested in their properties.

The request was contained in a telegram sent to the president last Saturday by Camilo Osias. member of the colony, but no reply has been received to the communication.

'The colony was driven 'rom the district by a group of about 200 white farmers who had heard 3,000 more Filipinos were comi. to the district. The whites feared recurrence of labor templates.

Manuel Rami, who described himself as leader of the ousted Filipinos, said all are willing to leave the district, but wanted protection for themselves and their interests pending harvesting of their crops and disposal of leases on their land.

State Bares Efforts Made To "Buy" Impeachment of Verdict.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 27.—(P) tharges of efforts to buy an impeachment of their verdict from jurors were made by the state today in opposing a petition for a new trial for Colonel Luke Lea, of Nashville, Tenn., his son, Luke Jr., and Wallace B. Davis, of Asheville, who were convicted here last August of violating the state banking laws.

Solicitor Zeb V. Nettles presented Judge J. H. Clement, during argument of the netition, an affidavit from W. C. Flynn, saying he had been offered "every inducement" to impeach his verdict. Flynn, a member of the jury convicting the three men, did not say who offered him the inducements.

Other affidavits said financial offers were made in an effort to influ-

we have no blanket sale in August!

BUT

our August sale of coats starts Monday!

Allen's August Sale of Coats is a traditional and hisyears women hereabouts have looked forward to it for unbeatable values and supreme fashions. They have never been disappointed.

Allen's will hold its August Sale of Coats as usual this year. In making this announcement we want to add that never, in all our twenty-odd years, has the time been so propitious for this August Sale.

As everybody knows, labor and other manufacturing costs, as well as fabrics and furs are at the lowest prices within living memory. These Allen coats were made at these low costs, and they are marked minus our own normal profit, affording savings of 20% to 33 1-3% against the inevitable prices of Autumn . . . our own regular prices at which these coats will be remarked in September.

The argument that nobody knows what coat prices will be next Fall is pure tommyrot . . . a piece of sheer sophistry arising from naive and soporific reasoning.

We know. It's our business to know.

For that matter, everybody else knows. One has only to pick up the daily paper and to read of the revival of business and industry in all directions. The government is helping, and everywhere busines men are looking up. If this means anything it means higher prices all round!

We note with humor, not to say a loud guffaw, that a BLANKET SALE is permissible in August, but not a COAT SALE. Here is the difference between Tweedledum and Tweedledee!

BLANKETS and COATS . . . they are one and the same ... both are commodities under the implacable laws of commerce. They can be sold for less in August because they can be produced for less in a slack season.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(#)—Far from being discouraged by the recordbreaking deficit reported by United States Steel Corporation for the second quarter, stocks took a fresh option on bullishness today and closed with another liberal advance.

Many pet gains ranged from 1 to Many net gains ranged from 1 to

The brisk rally, lead by utilities, developed soon after noon. Sagging tendencies in the morning, reflecting acceptance of profits by professionals and doubtless some selling inspired by the steel figures, failed to attain impressive proportions.

Buoyancy in wheat, assurances that steel circles were holding to their predictions of reasonably good seasonal gains in September and an improvement in electric power figures were among the day's tangible arguments which carried weight on the buying side.

Most important, undoubtedly was wheat's rise of around two cents a bushel, based on substantial speculative accumulation and strength at Winnipers

Winnipeg.

The average rise in stocks, slightly more than 2 points, duplicated Monday's advance and brought the closing composite to 45.1, highest since May 12. Sales were 1,672,097 shares, the largest volume since June 3.

American Telephone, American Tobacco 'B' and Auburn, up about 4 points net, gave indication that considerable late buying had come from shorts who found supplies of stock scarce.

shorts who found supplies of scarce.

U. S. Steel preferred converted an early 4-point decline into a moderate net gain, while the common, after a fractional sag, closed higher.

Reports of resumptions at industrial plants were numerous enough to keep kindled the hope that seasonal improvement in the late summer and autumn would stimulate corporate earnings as well as relieve unemployment.

Electric power production rose slightly last week over the previous record, reducing the shrinkage from 1931 to 13.1 per cent, the drop was 13.9 per cent, the largest of the year, in the preceding weak. This index is likely to be a more sensitive barometer of industrial health than car loadings, for the latter have probably lost part of their value through diversion of traffic to trucks.

WILL ROGERS WINS OKLAHOMA DRIVE

BY WIDE MARGIN

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 27.—(P)
Will Rogers, the schoolmaster, swept into the democratic nomination for congressman-at-large by an avalanche of votes, today had the laugh on the folk who asserted he made the race as a counterfeit of the well-known comedian of the same name.

Will Rogers, the actor-writer, who left his native Oklahoma to first win fame on the New York stage with his homespun wit, has completely indorsed the congressional aspirant.

While tabulators still checked the amazing majority compiled in yesterday's run-off primary by the country teacher, he took his victory over Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state's charities commissioner, with complete calmness. He said he was "much obliged" to Oklahoma for the nomination.

The congress-at-large post is a new one, created by Oklahoma's increase in population at the 1930 census. The democratic nomination is generally considered equivalent to election.

NEW YORK, July 27.-Increased NEW YORK, July 27.—Increased momentum of the upward movement in the general stock market today was attributed to a sharp advance in the price of wheat and greater aggressiveness on the part of banking interests sponsoring the present recovery.

A substantial amount of covering by professional bear traders in the last hour was believed responsible for part of the sharp advances which occurred in such recent bear favorites as American Telephone & Telegraph, American Tobacco "B." Allied Chemical and American Can.

One important reason for the increased optimism marketwise is a report that the bond pool had entered the market for the pivotal shares with some of the profits received out of its recent operations in the general bond market.

The fact that the share market advances with the share market advances with same the control of the profits received out of its recent operations in the general bond market.

The fact that the share market advanced when professional traders were manimous that the list would have a reaction was considered significant and indicative of greater interest in stocks on the part of important interests.

Efforts of bears to extricate themselves from their short positions in a number of the leading stocks are expected to furnish additional momentum to the upward movement in prices.

tum to the upward movement in prices.

The emphasis placed by newspapers on the increased amount of new employment reported from different parts of the country also is contributing to improvement in sentiment.

The Iron Age in its weekly report today stated that material improvement in sentiment in the steel industry is based largely on the expectation of seasonal recovery, beginning notations are favorable for a turn.

Improvement in the brokerage business is expected to find reflection tomorrow in the figures on brokers' loans.

TRAINMEN SEEK RIGHT TO RETAIN STANDING

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(A)—A railroad dispute involving the right of demoted or furloughed engineers and firemen to continue union representation will be brought before the District of Columbia supreme court tomorrow under the recently enacted Norris anti-injunction law.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers seeks a restraining order against the Georgia, Southern and Florida railway to prevent recognition of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in the case of 72 employes of that road.

The court tomorrow is scheduled to hear testimeny on a show cause rule obtained against the Georgia, Southern and Florida, a subsidiary of the Southern railway, but the case probably will be continued until next Tuesday because of court congestion.
